Featuring: Eike Waltz

Eike Waltz has enjoyed a twofold career as classical ballet dancer in his native Germany and as a US based international engineering designer and international electronics industry consultant. He was the US National Committee Chief Delegate to the International Electrotechnical Committee and has been a US citizen since 1997. Between these careers, he studied fine art and industrial design at the Royal College of Art in London (Master of Design {M.Des.} RCA).

As a great admirer of the French writer and filmmaker Jean Cocteau, Eike met with him (so in a dream) when he was 20 years of age where he confronted him with the importance of "the line". At the same time Eike, (then a ballet soloist at the Deutsche Opera Berlin) was told by a family member of the Austrian writer Stefan Zweig to pursue the meaning of "to say" (say it outside the box – say it differently – say it with passion).
